To whom it may concern:

I've worked with PeraConnect on business development and public relations for several accounting and consulting firms, as well as some not-for-profit organizations.

At Meredith, Cardozo, Lanz & Chiu CPA's, five years after we started our firm, we had done everything we said we were going to do. But, like the American Express commercial, nobody knew our name. Sally introduced us to key business leaders and put us on a focused program of direct mailings, high visibility ad placements, event sponsorship and networking activities. By the end of the first year of the program, the firm had doubled in size and revenues and was preparing to merge into a large international firm.
